

The Fourth ISBEE World Congress
2008

15 - 18 July 2008
Cape Town, South Africa

Proudly hosted by:

The Olympics of Business Ethics

The ISBEE World Congress is held every fourth year and is affectionately referred to as the 'Olympics of Business Ethics'. It has always succeeded in attracting the best minds in the field of the ethics of business and economics.

The 2008 ISBEE World Congress will be hosted at the foot of the African continent in the beautiful city of Cape Town, South Africa.

The Congress aims to increase awareness of the main Congress theme 'Global Fairness – Local Integrity' through information exchange, best practice recognition and feedback on research currently being conducted on a global scale by various research partners. Speakers from around the world are now invited to submit papers for inclusion in the programme. Information available at www.isbee.org.

Sponsored by KPMG, BHP Billiton, Infosys and Anglo American, the Congress promises to feature world-class business and academic insight. The Congress structure will support peer exchange, knowledge sharing and capacity building among the participants providing an opportunity for partnership building and cooperation on an international level with key partners.

An important feature of the Congress will be the Global Reports, with representatives from all regions of the world giving feedback on international research work done since the previous congress. Plenary and concurrent sessions will be held each day at which participants from all over the world will present papers on a wide range of topics related to the ethics of business and economics. For detailed information, please visit www.isbee.org.

Research reports will be delivered on global research currently being conducted on:

- ✓ Fairness in international trade and investment
- ✓ Ethics in small and medium enterprises

The main theme of the congress is 'Global Fairness – Local Integrity'.
